Title: The Unassailable Organization: Why Some Organizations and Teams Thrive in Volatile Times, and Others Do Not

9:30 am - 10:45 am

Description:

For any leader hoping to build a legacy of lasting success despite volatility and uncertainty, the first step is to solve the right problem. It's not retention, lack of engagement, burnout, workforce issues, or generational differences. To achieve lasting success, one must build an organization that embraces forward change together instead of its people, teams, and departments constantly moving in separate directions. Achieving this level of alignment and unity is hard. It is also necessary and a reality you can achieve.

Join author and keynote speaker Mark Kenny as he reveals why some leaders build great organizations, departments, and teams, while others consistently struggle with distractions and conflicts, and how you can build an unassailable organization that lifts the organization and every person to new heights.

In this presentation, you will:

- Examine the 3 foundational pillars to building an unassailable organization.
- Identify the mindset shift that every leader must embrace before their organization can become unassailable.
- Construct the next steps for your organization to become unassailable.
